Photos 1 et 2

Il y a deux photographies. La première est en noir et blanc : uniquement des hommes blancs en robe noire unie, qui doivent avoir la cinquantaine ou la soixantaine. Au contraire, la photographie n°2 montre des origines ethniques différentes (Caucasian, Asian, African, Hispanic) et aussi des femmes.

Le palais de justice

Document ③ : courthouse, c'est là que réside le pouvoir judiciaire (the judiciary power). La citation contraste avec la première photographie, puisqu'il n'y a pas de représentation équitable parmi les hommes (no fair representation).

La salle d'audience

Document ④ : un dessin qui représente une salle d'audience (a trial courtroom). À l'arrière-plan, les juges ; au premier plan, l'avocat (lawyer = an attorney = a solicitor or a prosecutor). Pour les procès à huis clos (behind closed doors), il n'y a ni journalistes ni photographes.

Serment et manifestation

Document ⑤ : une femme prête serment (is taking an oath), main gauche sur la Bible, main droite levée. Document ⑥ : une manifestation pacifique (a peaceful protest) : les gens manifestent pour exprimer leur désaccord (to voice their disagreement) avec une décision de la cour.
